KiwiRail Auckland Beautification Initiative

Auckland Metro Mural Guide

Graffiti is a persistent challenge across rail networks worldwide, and removing it is complex, costly, and short-lived. More importantly, people who enter the rail corridor to graffiti put themselves at significant risk.

KiwiRail has been transforming graffiti hotspots into vibrant public artworks, using murals and vinyl-wrapped signal boxes to beautify the network, deter trespass, and create opportunities to reinforce rail safety messages. Working with local artists, rangatahi, community groups, and mana whenua, the initiative celebrates local stories while also promoting safer behaviour around the rail corridor.

This Auckland Metro Mural Guide has been created to encourage train passengers to spot murals on their journeys. Download or print this guide and experience artworks created by some of Aotearoa's talented artists, bringing colour, culture, and creativity to the rail network.

Thank you to everyone who has contributed to this programme.
We hope local residents and commuters enjoy discovering these murals as they travel.

These artists were invited to paint in the rail corridor, and all the required protection and permissions were in place for this work to take place safely. It is extremely unsafe, and illegal, to enter the rail corridor for any reason without prior approval from KiwiRail.

If you know an artist or a good spot for beautification, please email murals@kiwirail.co.nz*. Please note, this work is limited to KiwiRail assets only.*
